Supported by
Fraunhofer IZM:

Meet and connect with fellow young professionals during this year's IEEE Young Professionals Event in Berlin, Germany. Participate in a guided tour at the Fraunhofer Institute for Reliability and Microintegration (Fraunhofer IZM) which includes a look at their anechoic chamber, power electronics lab, and packaging & prototyping line. Join us for our social event afterwards!

All who are still enrolled as students at a University, who work as research assistants in academia or have already acquired a few years of work experience in the industry are hereby invited to participate in this networking event organized by the IEEE German EMC Chapter and IEEE Young Professionals Germany. In order to register before 01. October 2025, please send an email with the reference "2025 Young Professionals Event in Berlin" (see sidebar on the left) and tell us if you are joining for the visit to Fraunhofer IZM, the social event, or both. Keep in mind that the number of attendees is limited. For future reference, we also ask you to share your name and your institution.
